

OLDER AMERICANS ACT AND STATE FUNDING

The federal Older Americans Act (OAA) was signed into law in 1965. Its purpose is to improve the quality of life for all older Americans, helping them remain independent and productive. This is accomplished through the development of services and opportunities, respecting the dignity of individuals, removing social barriers, providing a continuum of care, and securing opportunities for older Americans.

Each Wisconsin county and tribe has an Aging Unit that represents older persons in local decision-making for human services. The Wisconsin Elders Act became law in 1992 establishing Aging Units as the cornerstone for aging-related activities at the local level. Each Aging Unit is required to have a director and necessary personnel to ensure all OAA services are available to older citizens.

According to the Wisconsin Elders Act, the Aging Unit shall “Work to ensure that all older individuals, regardless of income, have access to information, services and opportunities available through the county or tribal Aging Unit, have the opportunity to contribute to the cost of services, and that the services and resources of the county or tribal Aging Unit are designed to reach those in greatest social and economic need.”
